

EXAMINATION GUIDELINES

Sample Educational Document for RAG Chatbot Testing

Institution: Greenfield Institute of Technology

Academic Year: 2026–2027

1. Purpose

These sample Examination Guidelines explain general procedures for internal and end-semester examinations, examination hall conduct, permitted materials, absence, and malpractice.

This document is fictional and is intended for testing the Domain-Specific RAG Chatbot.

2. Examination Schedule

The examination schedule is published through official institutional communication channels. Students are responsible for checking the date, time, venue, and reporting instructions for each examination.

Students should arrive at the examination venue at least 15 minutes before the scheduled start time unless different reporting instructions are provided.

3. Examination Hall Entry

Students must carry their valid institutional identity card and examination-related documents specified in the examination notice.

Students should occupy the seat assigned by the examination staff or follow the seating instructions displayed at the venue.

4. Permitted Materials

Students may bring only materials specifically permitted for the examination. Writing instruments and other approved materials should be kept ready before the examination begins.

Mobile phones, smart watches, unauthorized electronic devices, notes, books, or other prohibited materials must not be brought into the examination hall unless the examination instructions explicitly permit them.

5. Examination Hall Conduct

Students must maintain silence and follow instructions given by invigilators. Communication with other students during the examination is not permitted unless authorized by examination staff.

Students must not disturb other candidates, exchange materials without permission, or leave the examination hall without following the required procedure.

6. Late Arrival

Students who arrive after the examination has started must follow the instructions of the examination staff. Admission of a late candidate may be subject to the examination rules and the circumstances of the delay.

Students should avoid late arrival by checking the venue and reporting time in advance.

7. Absence from an Examination

A student who cannot attend an examination should notify the appropriate academic or examination office as soon as possible and follow the prescribed procedure for reporting the absence.

Requests for a special examination or other academic consideration are considered only when permitted by the applicable institutional rules and supported by the required documentation.

8. Malpractice and Academic Misconduct

Possession or use of unauthorized notes, communication devices, copying from another candidate, impersonation, or other prohibited behavior may be treated as examination malpractice.

Cases of suspected malpractice may be reported to the authorized examination committee for review. Consequences are determined according to the applicable institutional regulations.

9. Submission of Answer Scripts

Students should stop writing when instructed by the invigilator. Answer scripts and other examination materials must be submitted according to the instructions provided in the examination hall.

Students should ensure that required identification details are completed correctly before submitting the answer script.

10. Student Responsibility

Students are responsible for reading examination instructions, bringing permitted materials, arriving on time, following invigilator instructions, and maintaining examination integrity.
